About the book:

Zinnia's yarn bomb flops.

Her older brother (aka best friend and yarn bombing accomplice) leaves without a word.

And then the worst ever of worst evers:
BEES. IN. HER. HAIR.

Zinnia and the Bees is the story of a 12-year old knitter and yarn bomber and the colony of honeybees who mistakes her hair for a hive and lands on her head. Told from two perspectives, it's about searching for home and learning to trust yourself and others no matter how out of control life might be.

“...decidedly offbeat and emotionally true.”

—Kirkus

“...Davis does an excellent job crafting human characters who are varied in their emotions and grow in awareness.”

—School Library Journal

fascinating and unusual look at family, friendships, and insects...”

—Booklist
